Mejor Yost, editor of the Valley Virginian, the able and schoowledged organ of the Virginia republicans, may be runcing "a waiting race," as the Mahone outdidate for Lieutenant Governor says he is, but if he really intends, as Mr. Lawis says he door, to join the Mahonites at the close, he will have a lorg distance to make up, judging from what he has said before. and from what he says in the last issue of his paper, which is as follows:

"The developmen s of the canvass thus far give assurance that there is but one way to maintain the integrity of the regulilosa party, and that is through the action of a convention in placing a full republican ticket in the field. The purpose has been too plainly manifested to destroy the reputle an organ zation by absorption into the readjuster party, and by thus losing its distinctive party identity, forever blot it out of existence in Virginia, Evan this fate might have been contemplated with composure if the principles and policy for which the republicans have contended, could be assured, and the same ends accomplished through another organization and under another party name, necessitating the surrender of repub lican nomenclature, at least for a time. Bat the best study we have been able to give the situation and the developments before us leads us to the conclusion that defeat would follow any coalition, that such an attempted fusion would be less formidable than the republican party itself, and that the most effective method to subserve republican interests in Virg nia and the Union would be through strictly republi can organization and a republican ticket. The Northern press and many of the leading republicans of thas section, ex end their aid and countenance to a few policical adventurers. who have ever been the bitterest enemies and lianocence, was so tratsparent as to be visible the most intens; revilers of the republican to all. party, just because, having been kicked out of the democratic par'y by reason of their greed for power and place, they find no other chance in the departments will be removed somer or of renieving the desires of their souls, than by streating republican ideas, and professing a liberalism in violation of all their acts and convic ions herefore, without the manliness and to whom he is indebted for his communities, sed courage to identify themselves with the party | thus, too, it must not be forgotten, in the face whose principles they assume to embrace. Their records against the vital principles of the republican party-their loose and ruinous ideas | that with all the investigations now in progress of figate, commerce and industry are ignored, and their high sounding platitudes about liber. blism accepted as sufficient cause to give them preferance over republicans who have been the l'resident, if not as rapacions, is as corrupt tried as with fire and never faltered. The leaders in the movement have been the most better and ivsterate defamers of republicans; have never east a republiesa vote or uttered a word in defects of tion. There political acts and associations had all been in direct lantagonism to the frepublican Corgices to the affair, and it only indignant ot an offensive law upon the statute book affecting the rights of the negro, and about which now so much concern is manifested, but what had been approved, supported and championed by them, against the earnest protest and active opposition of the republicans of the State. At no time has there been a public declaration in favor of the republican party, or an intimation of a purpose to support republican organization. There is scarcely one of their leaders or exponents who is not on record against the financial policy, of the republican party, and in sympathy with the wildest vagaries of the extremest of the greenback lunatics and that too. when the very life of republican policy as it affects national integrity, was at issue" The comet will have to come much nearer the earth than it is before such talk as this will sound like running "a waiting race."

la the approaching election in this State every man who really wants the free school sys tem developed to its most enlarged proportions will not only east a ballot, but east it for the democratic ticket. He will east it because he his poil tax, ev.r; single cent of which goes to the support of the free schools, and he will east is for the democratic ticket, because the election of that ticket will privent the repeal of the formed the President that he intended to vote law for the collection of that tex. No mar, with the republicass in the organization of the whatever may be the color of his skie, who is really in favor of free schools, objects to paying the small amount of one dollar a year toward their port. 1. is said here that there is no doubt supp ri, and as every man who does pay ti si dillar is entitled to a vote, the silliness of the Mahonites' as used championship of the tree him and the last political state of Mr. Spect sahools is ridiculous to all reasonable people. will be ween than the first. They say that they are the friends and that the democrats are the enemies of the free schools, and yet while they would repeal the law that mak a the payment of the capitation tax a prerequisite to voting, the democrats would continue that law in operation, because it is the only practicable means for the collection of the t x from those opposed to free schools; from those so little interested in them that they bound d among them being Judge Reynolds, a would not otherwis: pay a doller toward their support, and those who want their children id unded at the cost of other people and without a .ou's expanse to themselves. Every man, white or negro, in favor of the free schools will ingly pays a dollar a year to sustain them, and every such man is qualified to vote. Those who throw obs.acles in the way of the collection of wou't tuy a breakfast," and wants to apply the these delers, upon which the prosperous existever of the free schools mainly depends, no matter what they may say to the contrary, and the real enemies of such schools, and that the repeal of the law making the payment of the blohone members of Congress, wants to pay capitation tax a prerequisite to voting will be such an obstacle, no intelligent man entertaics a doubt. Those who do want it repealed are the Mahonites; they, therefore, and not the democrats must be the enemies of the free

The Richmond Debt Payer says :

"The Alexandria Gazatto should be butter informed than to class Mr. Russell, Collegior of the Revenue, and Mr. Cook, Collector of Costems, of this city, with the 'Mahonites,' both of these officers being pronounsed debipayers."

The Gazette got its information from a prom nent, well informed and intelligent Virginia reaffairs; has been consulted by the President raspecting them; who is a Mahonite him self, and who, in furnishing it, made special reference to cers being anti Mahonites. We are glad to hear lightning, but recovered.

A milkman in Washington named Holand, who keeps a lacch room in the Tresury Depart ment, is to be turced out of his quarters there because he was a Confederate soldier. This dossa't lock very much like letting "bygones be bygoner." But such a s ate of feeling as that w.u'd imply must not be expected to exist among Northern men; it should only prevail among those of the South. The South must relicquish all its animosity; the North is entitled to retain all that it ever possessed. But it is a bad ra'e that won't work both ways.

The Debt Payer, the republican newspaper just started in Richmond, speaks in the most laudatory terms of General Mahone and his most of the platform alopted by the Mahonites at their recent convention, and, considering its name, touches their repudiation ideas exceedingly gingerly. The democrats are the debt payers but strange to say the Debt Payer be tween them and the repudiators takes the part of the latter. The inconsistency of republicanism is the most notablething of the age.

The northern people in their denunciation of opposition to a fr e vote and a fair count, fail to one, designated ' Pebbies from the Ocean of recollect that it was the very people they abuse who removed the property qualification for vetyears before they were required to do so by the Underwood constitution.

Graduates: Another year has passed the dial of your lives and written its impress upon your character and destinies. This period has no doubt added much to your knowledge, and trained your minds to habits of study.
A year at this time of life draws its hours slowly to a close, and the bright ant cipations that recreation paints with glowing tints regards the days as tardy in their ending.

But my young friends in a brief time when the responsibilities of manhood come, unbidden as your life's companions, this very day will come back to you fresh with the glow of youthful hope and hallowed in the memory of youth ful conquest. I would renew my carly days with you and feel the same glad triumph of well carned laurels, testified by the medals and diplomas of your earning. Tas age in which we live recep-nizes the progress of ideas, and the meant strides of this century, and the world acknowledges as her mistress the country whose every nill almost is crowned with institutions of art,

They are the near result of education, whether it comes from the electric light, the far off northern pole or the monster steamship, the of whose from heart throbs of music to the waves that bears it on. To-day can never come back to you; even as your manly hearts quicken with increased omotion as your name is signalled in the Lonored roll of distinguished students the day is in the past, and will never be yours again.
Time unimproved is lost forever; apportunilies wested can never tempt us with the vivid freshness of early life but ones. Therefore with an earnest trust in your future and an ardeat hope for your success. I will in kindness aid, tureue no hope that has for its reward the idle pleasures of this life, but in rectitude, honor and duty, engage your talents in the manly working out of some grand and noble work, whose enduring structure may live and mark your names as those stamped with genuine and true nobility. I present the prizes.
